Network for Health Promotion in Life and Work

Join WCPT Network for Health Promotion in Life and Work

The network helps you connect and talk with colleagues all over the world about health promotion in physical therapy. You can discuss anything that helps our patients, clients or ourselves be healthier and happier.

Let's talk about wellbeing in your country. Let's discuss health promotion, wellness, disability prevention and health behaviour change in all settings across the lifespan, including research, evidence based practice, outcome measures and cost benefit analysis.

This network helps us to get to know each other so we can learn what each other do, advise on projects and collaborate on research.

The network objectives are to:

- facilitate physical therapists to promote health and wellbeing in life and work, healthy lifestyle and active living for their clients/patients
- identify and network with physical therapists who are also experts in the fields of health promotion in life and work, wellness, disability prevention and behavioural change
- exchange evidence-based knowledge, best practice, ideas, opinions and promotion materials related to health promotion in life and work, wellness, disability prevention and behavioural change
- facilitate scientific work among physical therapists in the fields of health promotion in life and work, wellness, disability prevention and behavioural change, consequently creating changes in physical therapy educational systems and practice, so that it becomes more oriented towards these issues
- promote health and wellbeing in life and work, facilitate healthy lifestyle and active living among physical therapists.
